

ES-6 Pricing and Metering Strategies

Assessment: High Priority. Bin B. 9 out of 22 votes.

The attractiveness of renewable energy projects to developers and to utilities depends, in part, upon the delivered price of the energy to the purchasing entity. The interconnection and/or net metering policies and processes also play an important role in renewable energy project development. Therefore, pricing and metering strategies must be considered as part of a renewable initiative.